This Notice of Privacy Practices describes how we may use and disclose your protected health information (PHI) to carry out treatment, payment or health care operations (TPO) and for other purposes that are permitted or required by law. It also describes your rights to access and control your protected health information. "Protected health information" (PHI) is information about you, including demographic information, that may identify you and that relates to: your past, present or future physical or mental health or condition and related health care services; the provision of health care to the individual; or the past, present, or future payment for the provision of health care to the individual, and that identifies the individual or for which there is a reasonable basis to believe can be used to identify the individual. Individually identifiable health information includes many common identifiers (e.g. name, address, birth date, Social Security Number.) There are no restrictions on the use or disclosure of "De-Identified Health Information". De-Identified Health Information neither identifies nor provides a reasonable basis to identify an individual. There are two ways to de-identify information; either: 1) a formal determination by a qualified statistician; 2) the removal of specified identifiers of the individual and of the individual's relatives, household members, and employers is required, and is adequate only if the covered entity has no actual knowledge that the remaining information could be used to identify the individual.

1. Uses and Disclosures of Protected Health Information

Uses and Disclosures of Protected Health Information

We, as a covered entity, are permitted, but not required, to use and disclose protected health information, without an individual's authorization, for the purposes or situations; 1) To the individual (unless required for access or accounting of disclosures); 2) Treatment, Payment, and Health Care Operations; 3) Opportunity to Agree or Object; 4) Incident to an otherwise permitted use and disclosure; 5)Public Interest and Benefit Activities; and 6) Limited Data Set for the purposes of research, public health or health care operations. Covered entities may rely on professional ethics and best judgments in deciding which of these permissive uses and disclosures to make.

To the Individual We may disclose protected health information to the individual who is the subject of the information.

Treatment: A covered entity may use and disclose protected health information for its own treatment, payment, and health care operations activities. We may also disclose protected health information for treatment activities of any health care provider, the payment activities of another covered entity and of any health care provider, or the health care operations of another covered entity involving either quality or competency assurance activities or fraud and abuse detection and compliance activities, if both covered entities have or had a relationship with the individual and the protected health information pertains to the relationship.

Treatment is the provision, coordination, or management of health care and related services for an individual by one or more health care providers, including consultation between providers regarding a patient and referral of a patient by one provider or another.

Payment: Encompasses activities of a health plan to obtain premiums, determine or fulfill responsibilities for coverage and provision of benefits, and furnish or obtain reimbursement for health care delivered to an individual and activities of a health care provider to obtain payment or be reimbursed for the provision of health care to an individual. For example, obtaining approval for a hospital stay may require that your relevant protected health information be disclosed to the health plan to obtain approval for the hospital admission.

Healthcare Operations: Are any of the following activities: a) quality assessment and improvement activities, including case management and care coordination; b) competency assurance activities, including provider or health plan performance evaluation, credentialing, and accreditation; c) conducting or arranging for medical reviews, audits or legal services, including fraud and abuse detection and compliance programs; d) specified insurance functions, such as underwriting, risk rating, and reinsuring risk; e) business planning, development, management, and administration; and f) business management and general administrative activities of the entity, including but not limited to: de-identifying protected health information, creating a limited data set, and certain fundraising for the benefit of the covered entity. - 1. The covered entity who originated the notes may use them for treatment
- 2. A covered entity may use or disclose, without an individual's authorization, the psychotherapy notes, for its own training, and to defend itself in legal proceedings brought by the individual, for HHS to investigate or determine the covered entity's compliance with the Privacy Rules, to avert a serious and imminent threat to public health or safety, to a health oversight agency for lawful oversight of the originator of the psychotherapy notes, for the lawful activities of a coroner or medical examiner or as required by law.

- 1. Communications to describe health-related products or services, or payment for them, provided by or included in a benefit plan of the covered entity making the communications
